What to expect in this role:

- Development of jacket and coat product groups: From brainstorming to production readiness, you contribute innovative ideas and turn them into marketable products.
- Close cooperation with our production partners: You are the central point of contact, taking care of coordination regarding samples, prices, quantities and delivery dates, and ensuring that all parameters are met.
- Close communication with the Head of Design: You will work directly with the Head of Design to coordinate themes, model developments and styles for the entire collection.
- Trend research, market analysis and trade fair visits
- Presentation of product groups internally and externally

What you should bring:

- Degree in fashion/textile design or similar
- Professional experience in a comparable position in product management
- Experience in the upper premium, luxury segment is an advantage
- Strong communication and organisation skills, team spirit, enthusiasm for fashion
- Structured, independent working style with high quality standards
- Confident use of MS Office, good knowledge of Adobe InDesign
- Very good written and spoken English

What we offer you:

- A dynamic and creative working environment
- Independent work and space for your ideas
- A friendly team that works on an equal footing
- Flat hierarchies, short communication channels, quick decisions and honest feedback
- Attractive employee discounts and other family benefits
- Team events
